LC3 Resource Spotlights

Connections App

The New Mexico Human Services Department (HSD) partnered with CHESS Health to provide a set of evidence-based digital tools and peer support as an extension of treatment and therapy for substance use disorder. These tools help individuals reduce isolation, build confidence, and adhere to a treatment and recovery plan. The Connections app is available at no cost to providers and patients through tribal health centers, community health centers that are federally qualified health centers, sober living residences, and through other resources such as the 988 crisis support line. The app is also available to directly to community members through the link below.
